

100km Walk for a Cure – supporting all Childhood Cancers.

Let's Go Gold

The 100km Walk is a challenge, it isn't a race. It symbolises in many ways the struggle that children facing cancer go through every day.

Event Overview:

In an effort to raise funds to help support people affected by Cancer, Brad Perry started the 100KM Walk for a Cure in 2007. During this time, committed walkers have raised over $60,000.

This year it will be a childhood cancer charity, The Golden Octopus Foundation, which aims to raise money to upgrade facilities for pediatric cancer patients at all regional hospitals in Australia, so children are not taken away from their homes for long periods for treatments and ongoing checkups.

They will also be implementing Childhood Cancer Nurses across Australia. Participants will be asked to set a fundraising goal and will receive tips and coaching between registration and the event. Please join us in 2018 to help our kids and Walk 100km for a Cure.
